

NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS

Lionel Burman is Honorary Research Fellow in the School of History at the University of Liverpool. Until his retirement he was Curator of Decorative Arts at National Museums Liverpool, where he specialised in ceramics.

June Clayton is a retired teacher. She took an MA in History at Manchester Metropolitan University before completing an MPhil in the School of History, University of Liverpool. She is currently completing an MSc in Science and Technology in the Department of Physics at the University of Liverpool, focused on the life of Sir Joseph Rotblatt.

Peter Drury is a retired Consultant Anaesthetist who worked at the Royal Liverpool Hospital. He is Editor of Proceedings of the History of Anaesthesia Society.

Andrew Larner is a Consultant Neurologist at the Walton Centre for Neurology and Neurosurgery, Liverpool, and Society of Apothecaries' Honorary Lecturer in the History of Medicine, University of Liverpool.

Rita Scott completed her MA in Local History at the University of Liverpool in 2000.

Sally Sheard is Lecturer in History of Medicine in the Department of Public Health and School of History at the University of Liverpool. Her research interests include nineteenth- and twentieth-century British Public Health. She is currently writing a joint monograph with Sir Liam Donaldson on the history of the role of the Chief Medical Officer, 1855-1998.